According to the agreement. Mr. Freeman was to pay his wife $30 a week. She in eturn was not to molest him. and he expected that she would leave the city and go to her ather's house at Wabash, Ind. regularly and a good deal more, too. His wife remained in the city. She lived at the Vendome for two weeks, and ran up a bill of $100. This bill came to him, and he paid it. He also paid a bill for doctors and nurses. The pace was becoming too rapid for him and his law-yer advised him to quit.

Judge Meddiam granted yesterday an order directing Freeman to show cause to-day why he should not pay increased alimony and counsel fee also to his wife, pending her suit for absointed words. Along with the order goes a complaint charging Freeman with adultery with Maud Kenyon, an actress. The action is said to have been precipitated by an incident at the Hotel Martin on Thursday afternoon, related by Mrs. Freeman to her coulsel. A. H. Himmel. She says she saw her husband enter the hotel with a young woman, whose identity is not disclosed. Subsequently Mrs. Freeman asked to be admitted to the room they had taken, but her request was refused by the clerk. She then saw the proprietor, who ordered Max and his companion out of the hotel.

Mrs. Freeman, who is living at the Hotel Mariborough, says that Freeman was employed by the Aronsons for several years and became infatuated with Maud Kenyon, who played in one of the Casino road companies, of which he was stage manager, in the production of "L'Oncie Celestin." There was a little breeze over the relations of Freeman parted from the company. Mrs. Freeman, who was living in this city, saw something about the difficulty in the newspapers, and went to Chicago. The Freemans, however, continued to live together on Freeman's promise to be a dutiful husband thereafter. His wife says that he did not keep his agreement and that he resumed relations with Maud Kenyon.

Horence Howard has obtained from Judge Andrews an absolute divorce from Harry L. Beward, drummer, and lately a variety actor. They were married on Sept. 27, 1838, at St. Isal. It was shown that Howard had been king at different piaces in this city with May Bell, an actress. The principal witness against him was Ward E. Robinson, who sent him on his road to sell a bluing for washing. He pocketed $1,800 and disappeared. He was arressed, but his father, said to be a wealthy man of Burlington, Vt., paid the money and levers measured. He was then acting in Hubers Museum in Fourteenth street.

MRS. MEEKER'S WRONGS.

If the Story She Tells is Half True, She Ought to Get a Divorce.

Mrs. Annie G. Meeker of Newark is trying to get a divorce from Jonathan T. Meeker. In her testimony in Vice-Chancellor Green's court in that city yesterday she said: "I was sick abed one day and heard my husband talking to the doctor in the next room. He said: 'Mrs. Meeker is insane, and I think the best thing we can do is to give her ether and take her to an asylum."

Then, she says, the doctor entered her room and tried to give her medicine, which she refused to take. Just then her mother and sisterentered the room and her husband's plot fused to take. Just then her mother and sister entered the room and her husband's plot was thwarted. She says her husband was realous to a degree amounting almost to insanity; that he bet on horse races and made it necessary for her to keep boarders. He was savessively jealous of the boarders. She tessified that he frequently knocked her down with blows of his fist and drove her out of the house in her nightgown.

One night, she says, when it was raining and the ground was covered with sleet, he accesed her of geing out driving with Mr. Mchirgan, a coal dealer, and ran at her. To escape him she jumped out of a window into the yard, ten feet below. It was after 10 clock at night, and she was clad only in a nightgown and stockings, and she had to sit upon the back stoop for two hours before he would let her in. At another time he chased her into the yard, and she had to take shelter in a big packing case until he inlocked the door and allowed her to return. He pointed a review at her and said that he would blow her brains out for a cent, and he kept her in terror of her life, she says, for several minutes. At another time he threw her down and choked her into insensibility, telling her afterward that she was black in the face and he thought the would nover review. When she started to leave him hecried and promised to do better. She said that he earned $1,500 a year as a tasher and bookkeeper in a store.

She Couldn't Rear in Stience the Storte Against Her Mother.

Grace Barlow, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Dr. J. Wilton Barlow of 108 Rutledge street, Williamsburgh, has followed the example of her mother, Mrs. Jessie A. Barlow, who left her home. She went away on Thursday night, after writing her father a letter to the effect that she loved her mother, and would in the future live with her grandmother, Mrs. Forbes, at 1,119 Hancock street, Brooklyn. According to the girl, when her mother disappeared about two weeks ago, her father began to exereise stricter discipline upon her, and forbade her leaving the house. He permitted her to go out for a walk on Thursday night, and she did not return. Late at night Dr. Barlow received word from her that she would not go back to

"Ever since mamma left us," said the girl yesterday. " papa has kept me like a prisoner, and wouldn't even permit my friends to come and see me. Mamma was always good, and I can't think any wrong of her, and I know she has not done any. For the first time in three weeks I was permitted yesterday to leave the house for a little while. After ordering some things at a grocery I made up my mind to go to my grandmother's. I don't want to say anything of my papa's treatment of me be cause whatever he may do he is still my papa. I love my mamma dearly, and to see the stories published about her when I was not al-

I love my mamma dearly, and to see the stories published about her when I was not allowed to say anything in contradiction was more than I could hear."

Miss Barlow, after her mother disappeared and was afterward heard of in Montreal, received a letter from her in which Mrs. Barlow denied having cloped with Dr. C. H. Giles, and told the girl not to believe any stories derogatory to her character which she might hear.

To a Sun reporter Dr. Barlow denied last night that his daughter had been kept a prisoner in his house for three weeks.

"When my wife disappeared on Friday, March 17," said Dr. Barlow." I gave certain instructions to my daughter which, in my judgment, I considered proper under the circumstances, as my daughter is yet a girl a little over fitteen. I found that two or three persons were poisoning her mind against me and seeking further to break up my family. When I found this to be the case I directed her to cease all intercourse with those people and asked her not to go out of the house. She had every opportunity to do so, however, when I made my calls. I simply put her upon her honor. On Thursday I gave her permission to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Porbes. She did not come back, and I am firmly convinced that she has been influenced by somebody to take this step as a further annoyance to me. I have neversought to prejudice my daughter against my wife. Only yesterday, before Grace left home. I had a long talk with her and explained to her my sorrow at the act of my wife and assured her that if her mother could or would explain to me where she had been during the several nights of her absence and other strangethings, that I would willingly forgive her and be happy again. I am sure that I have not exercised undue discipline in this matter regarding my daughter. I have requested her to return and I believe that upon due reflection she will see that this is the proper thing to do."

INSANE AND WANTED TO DIE.

Intention to Kill Herself. On Thursday night a neatly dressed young woman walked into the Fifth street police station and asked to see the Captain. When Capt. Doherty presented himself, she said: "Captain, I want to destroy myself." The Captain told his visitor that he thought her too young to die, but she replied: "My friend is gone, and I am going, too. I picked up a paper to-day and read of the suicide of Lizzie Wilson, my dearest friend, who committed suicide in Thirteenth street."

The woman then asked Capt, Doherty to give her the letter that Lizzie Wilson wrote to her mother just before she died, saying that it must not be delivered. Convinced that his visitor was insane, Capt. Doherty told her to go to Coroner Messemer, who, he said, had the letter. She went. The Coroner pronounced her insane, and ordered her arrest. She refused to give her name, but it was afterward learned that it was Mary Harold, and that she lived at 321 Pleasant avenue. At the Union Market station, where she remained on Thursday night, she became very vioient. Yesterday she was sent to Bellevue Hospital. At 321 Pleasant avenue it was said that the woman was a servant in the employ of Mrs. Mamer, and that she has two brothers in this city. A year ago she married Frank E. Harold, ianitor at 280 Madison avenue, but did not live with him long. Mrs. Mamer does not think the woman knew Lizzie Wilson. per to-day and read of the suicide of Lizzie

POLICE CAPTAIN NUGENT.

Appointed Last Evening in Jersey City to

A hot contest for the Captainey of the Fifth police precinct in Jersey City, to fill the va-Smith, was ended last evening by the appointment of Sergeant Thomas F. Nugent. There were several candidates, and Bosses Davis and McLaughlin were divided. Davis backed Nugent. The latter also had the support of Superintendent Smith. McLaughlin's favorite superintendent Smith. McLaughlin's favorite candidate was Detective Clark. President John P. Feeney was for Clark and Commissioner Kelly for Nugent. Commissioner Van Keuren, the third member of the Board and a Republican, was neutral. President Feeney is in Florida. Commissioners Kelly and Van Keuren held a regular meeting of the Board last evening and appointed Nugent. When the news reaches President Feeney he won't like it.

Capt. Nugent was a Police Commissioner for three years. He was elected in 1886 for a term of two years and redlected in 1888. In 1883 the new charter went into effect giving the Mayor power to appoint the Commissioners, and Nugent was legislated out of office. He was appointed Sergeant in June, 1880.

Roundsman John J. Quinn was promoted to Sergeant to take Nugent's place.

He was arrested last Friday, and consented to come here without extradition papers. He admits laving taken the money, which he spent at Guttenburg and on a trip abroad.

Mr. Bahan Prepared to Lead. Assemblyman Walter W. Bahan of the Ninth Assembly district, the member who tried unsuccessfully to legislate barbed-wire fences out of existence, was engaged yesterday in telling the local political gossips that he had been selected to succeed the late James Fitzpatrick as Tammany leader in the Ninth. Mr. Bahan was the only member of Tammany Hall who had heard of his selection, and his story did not bother the other candidates for the leadership, one of whom remarked, "Bahan's mistaken."

Mr. Bahan stated that he had been notified of his choice as leader yesterday afternoon. Mr. Croker usually serves such notification personally. He couldn't have done so yesterday, for he was on his way to litchfield springs at the time mentioned by the Assemblyman.

Judge Moore Gets Threstening Letters. Judge Henry A. Moore of the Court of Ses sions, in Brooklyn, has recently received some threatening letters, one of which, signed "A friend," told him that not only tiolence but death soon awaited him, and another, to which the name "Jack the Dodger" was appended, directed him to "skip" if he wanted to save his life. The latters were turned over to lo-lice Superintendent Campbell, who is satisfied that they came from some crank. He has had detectives, however, watching Judge Moore's house for several days.

Stole the Spectacles Of a Woman's Nose. On Thursday Morris B. After a hard Winter the body needs a nourishment (not a mere tonic or medicine,) to help ride out the storms of Spring and withstand disease. Exposure to disease now means the taking of disease, unless the system is properly nourished.

ROWDIES WITH DIPLOMAS. Two Newly Fledged Boctors Make a Scene

in a Street Car. About 5 o'clock on Thursday afternoon two well-dressed young men boarded an up-town Third avenue surface car near Twenty-sixth street. One of them carried a lighted cigar in his hand, and both had evidently been drinking. Upon entering the car the taller of the pair stumbled over a woman, scattering the hot ash from his cigar over her. He then scrambled into a seat in the opposite corner and leered insultingly at the victim of his carelessness. This aroused the wrath of carelessness. This aroused the wrath of Alfred Schulte, a broker, of 204 East Fifty-ninth street, who happened to be in the car, and he called the attention of the conductor to the clear, upon which the man was still puffing vigorously.

The fellow gave up the clear, but, turning suddenly upon Mr. Schulte, he beat him over the head with a heavy cane until he fell to the floor af the car unconscious, with several ugly wounds in his scalp. Attracted by the noise, the second young man, who had remained on the rear platform, rushed to his friend's assistance and grappled with the conductor, who was vainly trying to hold the enraged man. In the scuffic a window of the car was knocked out, and the conductor, finding that he had his hands full, ran out and called a polleman, who arrested the combatants.

At the police station the prisoners gave their names as William Slattery, 25 years old, of Kill Second avenue, and John Bell, 20, who eccupies a room at the same address. Slattery and Hell have been studying at the Bellevue Medical College, and upon receiving their diplomas on Wednesday started out to celebrate the event before returning to their homes in the central part of the State. In the Yorkville Police Court yesterday morning Bell promised to pay for the broken window, and was discharged, but Slattery was held in $500 for his good behavior for one month. He furnished bonds. GOLF PLAYERS ON THE ASPHALT. The Police Can't Catch Them Because the Boys Wear Roller Skates.

The children of the well-to-do residents of the neighborhood of Thirty-fourth street and Madison and Park avenues are making a nulsance of themselves just now to the residents who haven't any children. The particular thing that the latter object to is the playing of golf on the asphalt roadways. The residents have complained to Capt. O'Connor that the flying golf balls break the windows and annoy the women who pass on the sidewalks. Detectives Lang and Sullivan are trying to put astop to the golf playing, but they are having a hard time of it. The boys play on roller skates, and they fly up and down the avenue so swiftly when the police are in sight that it is impossible for the detectives, who are not shod with anything that moves faster than the regulation police shoes, to catch them. Not being able to catch the boys the detectives have succeeded in capturing a collection of the golf sticks that the boys have dropped in their flight. The boys were at the game again yesterday afternoon in Fark avenue, and easily got out of the way of the coppers. Capt. O'Connor says that he will stop the play if it requires all the reserves to do it. ing of golf on the asphalt roadways. The res-

Greenpoint.

Judge Brown, in the United States District Court, gave a decree yesterday in favor of Patrick O'Rourke, the owner of a canal boat, who demanded damages from the New York Dyewood Extract and Chemical Company. O'Rourke moored his boat several weeks ago near the mouth of a Greenpoint sewer. In the night the sewer was opened, and a mass of chemicals and refuse poured into the boat, sinking her. O'Rourke says he barely escaped. Judge Brown holds that the company, which owns the sewer, should have put up a notice of warning. He granted an order for reference to compute the damage.

LIABILITY OF HOTEL KEEPERS.

Even in Chicago You May Recover for the Commercial travellers in the city were interested yesterday in the news from Chicago to the effect that Theodore Bendit, a New York drummer, had recovered a judgment of $40 against the Palmer House for a coat and overcoat which had been stolen from his room. Mr. Bendit brought his suit as a test case for the benefit of commercial travellers who might have to stay in Chicago.

It had been a well-settled principle of law in New York and most of the other States for a long time that hotel keepers were liable for the loss or theft of a guest's wearing appared, provided the guest himself was not af fault or guilty of negligence which led to the loss or theft. Indeed, in this State this principle has been so broad that the Legislature has seen fit to restrict it, presumably on account of the heavy damages several times recovered against hotel keepers prior to 1893.

In that year an act was passed limiting the liability of the hotel keeper for the loss of any guests' wearing appared to $500 where it appeared that such loss was without the fault or negligence of the hotel keeper. When he was at fault or negligent his limitity was limited only by the value of the articles lost or stolen. It was likewise provided that the landlord should not be liable for articles not within a room assigned to the guest, unless they had been intrusted to the care of the hotel keeper or his servants. the loss or theft of a guest's wearing apparel,

Washington, March 31.-The Department of State has been informed of the establishment of two new transatiantic steamship lines, hav ing New York for their terminus on this side The first is a freight line, reported by Walter F. Gardner, Consul at Rotterdam. It is called the North American Transport line, comprising seven steamers, sailing every other Wednesday. Mr. Gardner says the increase of business between Rotterdam and New York, as shown by the records of his office, is almost phenomenal. In 1801 the clearances from liotterdam for New York were 61; in 1802 they were 224. The steamers running between those ports, says Mr. Gardner, have heretofore been crowded, oftentimes beyond their capacity, so that the establishment of the new line was a necessity.

The other is a passenger and freight line, to be called the Scandia line, the terminal ports being New York and Stettin on the Baitic. It is operated by the Hamburg-American Packet Company, and gives direct communication between this country and several ports heretofore off main lines of travel. One of these is Gothenberg. Senator Irby has admitted that he was present when Gov Tillman wrote the letter, and that only Gov Tillman, the President, and himself are aware that such a letter is in existence. They saw Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Maxwell, who gave them but little encouragement beyond saying that the South Carolina cases might be taken up next week for consideration. Mr. Maxwell declined to state who is responsible for having the Congressman classed as Third party men, and accordingly turned down. The indications are that the President may determine to fill the South Carolina offices with men who are not actively identified with either of the contending factions.

Postmaster-General Bissell has fallen a vic-tim to the grip. He is the first prominent member of the Administration to be so affected, although the disease has been epi-demic here during the winter and especially prevalent since inauguration day.

Third Assistant Postmaster-General Hazen has received an application from a Kansas Postmaster for the employment by the Government of his daughter to sell postage stamps at the Chicago Columbian Exposition. He says that she has had much experience in selling stamps, and mentions as one of her qualifications the fact that she has let largest postal clerk in the country, weighing 472 pounds. She is 24 years of age, and as an evidence of good faith the father encloses his daughter's photograph.

Treasury officials recall with satisfaction, in view of recent disclosures, that only two weeks ago the Secretary of the Treasury decided that the Government could not in any way recognize warehouse receipts as being in the purview of the customs authorities. It is now stated that $300,000 of these forged warehouse receipts are in circulation, and if the Government had recognized them it would now be partly responsible for them. Much pressure has recently being brought on the Treasury Department to that end.

Secretary Morton of the Department of Agriculture has devised a plan to test the fitness of applicants for places in the department that are not governed by civil service rules. Each applicant on filing his application will be required to answer certain questions as to moral and physical fitness, and also questions bearing upon the work he desires to perform. This will enable the Secretary to more accurately determine the qualifications of applicants and attain a high standard of work in the department.

Secretaries Gresham and Carlisle have been looking into the expenditures of the Behring Sea Arbitration Commission, and a statement of the balances on the books of the State Department has been furnished Secretary Carlisle. These show that of the $290,000 appropriated by Congress to defray the expenses of that arbitration a little more than half that amount has already been expended. But the payments made include a full payment of the allowances to the agent, counsel, and arbitrators, and a portion of their expenses; also the expenditures in connection with the preparation of the case and counter case, collecting evidence, printing. &c. Ayer's Sarsaparilla Cures others, will cure you

THESE twelve beautiful babies have been cured of the most torturing and disnguring of skin, scalp and blood diseases, with loss of hair, by the CUTICURA REME-DIES after the best physicians and all other remedies had failed. The story of their sufferings is almost too painful for recital. The days of torture and nights of agony from itching and burning eczemas, and other skin, scalp and blood diseases. Add to this the terrible disfigurement, and life seemed, in most cases, scarcely worth the living. But these cures are but examples of hundreds made daily by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They may be heard of in every town, village and cross-roads. Grateful mothers proclaim them everywhere. In short, CUTICURA works wonders, and its cures are among the most marvellous of this or any age of medicine. To know that a single application of the CUTICURA REMEDIES will, in the great majority of cases, afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a permanent and economical (because most speedy) cure, and not to use them without a moment's delay, is to fail in your duty. Cures made in infancy and childhood are speedy, and permanent.

Nothwithstanding that the most elaborate Nothwithstanding that the most elaborate preparations have been made for their transportation, the original drafts of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution will not be sent to Chicago as a part of the State Department exhibit after all. Secretary Gresham's attention has been called to the protests of the Sons of the Revolution, sons of the American Revolution, and historical societies throughout the country as well as of many prominent persons interested in preserving these documents from the Injury they think might befall them either in transportation or while upon exhibition. The fact is, however, that the precious documents are in more danger from outsiders now than they would be in Chicago or en route, as no precautions are taken that would prevent any one from walking off with them at any time during office hours. From the opening of the department in the morning until the close of official business the Declaration is exhibited in a wooden case, with a plain glass over it, and the only protection afforded is two mahogany doors, swinging open the greater part of the time, and upon which is a card informing persons that all anyone has to do is to turn the key, open the door, and look at the faded parchment. The Constitution is kept in another part of the room and is equally unprotected.

When it was decided that the manuscripts were to be sent to Chicago, an order was given for the construction of a steel fire and burgiar proof safe for their protection. The safe has been finished and is now in Chicago, but, instead of heling the receptable of these two papers, it has been decided to use it for the traites and other valuable documents that will be sent by the department. The documents will be placed in a Treasury safe, such as is used in moving Government bonds and money, and, under escert of a guard of noticement will be placed in a free of these two papers, it has been decided to use it for the children. The safe in Chicago is made with roller wheels, so that in case of fire or other disaste preparations have been made for their trans-portation, the original drafts of the Declara-musicians. In reply to a protest against the admission of foreign musicians for the World's Fair Secretary Carlisie has just declared that he cannot prevent their coming, provided they are not under contract, since they are, in the terms of the law, "artists." The law does not admit of any distinction between ordinary, street fakirs, or "wandering minstrels," and high-class performers, hence Mr. Carlisle, in his official capacity, is bound to recognize all of them as artists, even though half the number don't know a quarter note from a fly speck. While this decision has been elicited from the Treasury Department, a question of equal interest to band musicians has been referred to the becretary of the Navy for his consideration. About six years ago the Marine Band of Washington arranged a tour, the purpose of which was to give a series of concerts in the large cities of the United States. The Musical Union complained to the Secretary of the Navy, to whose department the Marine Band belongs, and the complaint reached President Claveland. It was urged that the Marine Band has a Government forganization, receiving a fixed salary from the United States, ought not to be permitted to come into competition with local organizations throughout the country. The advantage, it was urged, would be on the side of the Government of the Advantage, it was urged, would be on the side of the Government of the washing than the four was abandoned. Early in President Harrison's administration the question was revived, and ty permission of Secretary Tracy the Marine Band made a number of profitable tours during the last Administration, and in addition to the money accruing from these performances its members continued to draw their regular salarius from the Government. Recontly the band arranged for another tour, but the plans for it have in all profisable tours during the last Administration, and in addition to the money accruing from these performances its members continued to draw their regular salarius from the Government. Recontl admission of foreign musicians for the World's Fair Secretary Carlisle has just declared that

Weisner has a grocery at 561 Columbus avenue, and the baker who supplies him with bread leaves it on the doorstep before the store is opened in the morning. For several mornings the grocer has missed a loaf of bread each morning. Yes orday morn-ing he got up early to watch for the sief. He proved to be Joseph Lloyd Haigh, who ow lescribes himself as a broker, 53 years old, or

He said he had no intention of stealing the bread, but that he purchased mest of his supplies of Weisner, and needing the bread before the store was opened he took it, intending to pay for it afterward.

At the Harlem Police Court, Justice Burke held the accused in $300 bail for trial for petit larceny. The court officers recognized him as the man whose failure caused a sensation twelve years ago.

At that time Haigh had wire manufactories in Brooklyn and Morrisania, and was supposed to be wealthy. His offices and warchouse were at $1 John street. He furnished wire for the Atlantic cable, and had a contract to supply over $500,000 worth of steel wire to the Brooklyn Bridge Company, but was detected trying to paim off an inferior article after hundreds of tons of it had been delivered.

Shortly after Haigh's failure it was rumored that he had raised the capital for his various enterprises upon forged securities, and that he had raised the capital for his various enterprises upon forged securities, and that he had raised the capital for his various enterprises upon forged securities, and that he had raised the capital for his various enterprises upon forged securities, and that he had raised the capital for his various enterprises upon forged securities were in the shape of notes, drafts, and acceptances, of which the Grocers' Bank held $303,000. Haigh's conviction was secured after a sensational trial.

She came to this country with Campanini in 1888, and created the part of Deadenous in Verd's opera "Otello." Her success was flattering, but she gave up opera to sing in concert and in churches. Two years ago she was engaged to sing in Dr. Paxton's choir at a saliary of $4,000, which was raised to $5,000 last year.

Mme. Albertini has been secured to take her place. Mme. Aibertini has been secured to take her place.

Mme. De Vere has worked very hard ever since coming to this country, and has supported her bind father, who lives in England. On April 13 last she was married to Claudio Sapio at Dr. Paxton's house. Mr. Sapio is a Sicilian by birth and is a professor in Mrs. Thurber's Conservatory of Musle.

Mrs. Sapio's friends are solicitous now about her voice. Many singers on becoming mothers have lost the power which had earlier won success for them, notably Mme. Gerster, But the general belief among artists that maternity commonly results in an impairment of the voice is erroneous, so specialists say.
